See profile on p.928

A strong specialisation in energy and environment matters gives this firm a great advantage over its competitors. It has a varied client base and mining companies regularly call upon this team to advise on environmental aspects of their business operations. It is currently advising electricity company Hidrocaniete on the review and negotiation of an emission reduction purchase agreement (ERPA) with Endesa Carbono for the certified emission reductions (CERs) that will be generated from a hydroelectric power generation project. Karim Kahatt (see p.893) is handling this project and is an unmistakable leader in the field. He has a strong academic background and extensive international experience in relation to environmental issues.
